

REQUEST: Amendment to the City's Unified Land Development Regulations (ULDR); Revising Section 47-5.60 amending the development review and approval process within the Residential Office zoning districts (RO/ROC/ROA) subject to the requirements of Section 47-24, Table 1, Development Permit and Procedures and to remove the requirement to provide the standard bufferyard and wall requirement when adjacent to residential property, but as may be required under the general requirements of Section 47-25.3.A to mitigate adverse impacts of the non-residential use adjacent to residential uses.

Case Number	5T13
Applicant	City of Fort Lauderdale
ULDR Sections	47-5.60 RESIDENTIAL OFFICE ZONING DISTRICTS
Notification Requirements	Newspaper notice 10 days prior to meeting date.
Action Required	Recommend Approval or Denial of the proposal to the City Commission.
Written By	Anthony Greg Fajardo, Zoning Administrator

BACKGROUND/DESCRIPTION:

The Residential Office (RO) zoning districts (including Residential Office (RO), Residential Limited Office (ROA), and Residential Planned Office (ROC) Districts) were created to permit certain commercial uses such as professional office and limited retail to be located within existing residential areas and allow new construction that is compatible with the residential character of the areas in which they are located. However, the current ULDR language requires Planning and Zoning Board (PZB) approval of residential uses as well as commercial uses in these districts as a site plan level III review. This requirement appears to be an unintended scrivener's error and the site plan review approval as a level III appears is inconsistent between the various RO districts.

To address this issue staff is proposing an amendment to Section 47-5.60, Residential Office Zoning Districts, which would clarify this discrepancy and permit the construction of residential and non-residential uses as is provided for in all other areas of the City subject to the current thresholds for development as stated in Section 47-24, Development Permits and Procedures. This would include Site Plan Level I (Administrative) review for single family homes, multi-family dwellings up to 4 units and commercial (non-residential) development less than 5,000 gross square feet in size and Site Plan Level II (Development Review Committee) review and higher for all developments that exceed those thresholds in addition to the other site plan review and approval procedures as indicated in the ULDR.

Staff is also proposing an amendment that would allow for an alternative to the requirement for a standard bufferyard when a RO district use is proposed adjacent to a residential use be revised. The current requirement for a 10-foot buffer yard is difficult to provide in many situations as lots in RO districts tend to be fairly narrow (i.e. approximately 50-feet in width in some case) making the effective width of the lot when adjacent to residential on both sides approximately 30-feet. This may have the effect of limiting the development potential of these sites as this requirement can come into conflict when designing supporting parking areas (vehicular use areas). The proposed amendment will not remove the requirement for a bufferyard as it relates to the principal or accessory structures. Staff is proposing allowing parking areas associated with RO uses to be permitted to encroach into the bufferyard. In addition, the recommended amendment to the bufferyard requirements would allow for alternatives to the standard wall requirement. The current requirement calls for a 5-foot high concrete block wall. The proposed amendment would allow for alternatives to a wall, such as a wood fence, as is permitted in residential areas. This will allow these areas to have a certain amount of flexibility for adaptive reuse of existing sites and will allow for the residential character of these established areas to remain intact when RO uses are proposed in these zoning districts.

Staff has determined the proposed amendments are consistent with the City of Fort Lauderdale's Comprehensive Plan.

The draft ordinance amendments are attached as Exhibit 1.

PUBLIC OUTREACH:

Staff attended the Council of Fort Lauderdale Civic Associations on April 9, 2013 to present the proposed amendment. While the overall membership did not vote to express a recommendation for approval or denial, the general comments included concern with removing the bufferyard requirements that help to mitigate non-residential uses adjacent to residential uses. However, staff also heard from members who supported the amendment. In addition, staff is also attended the Poinciana Park Civic Association meeting on April 10, 2013. Based on the input by members of these organizations staff revised the proposed amendment from its original recommendation to remove the requirements for a bufferyard to the stated recommendation above that maintains the bufferyard requirements for principal and accessory structures, but would permit parking areas to encroach into the bufferyard.

PLANNING & ZONING BOARD REVIEW OPTIONS:

The Planning and Zoning Board acting as the Local Planning Agency shall determine whether the proposed change is consistent with the City of Fort Lauderdale's Comprehensive Plan and whether the Planning and Zoning Board recommends approval of the proposed amendments to the City Commission.

These provisions depend on the details of site and building design and include the use, appearance, height, bulk and location of principal and accessory buildings, and the location and design of landscaping, open space, land and water areas, recreational areas, parking areas, roadways and other features. Review and approval of a development plan are required to insure such provisions will be provided.
2. Uses permitted. ~~No building or structure, or part thereof, shall be erected, altered or used, or land or water used, in whole or in part, for other than any use hereinafter set out. Any use permitted in RO, if approved by the planning and zoning board. Uses shall be consistent with those uses as permitted or prohibited in the Residential Office (RO) zoning district.~~

9. Approval of development plan. No building or structure, or part thereof, shall be erected, or used, or land or water used, or any change of use consummated, nor shall any building permit be issued therefor, unless a development plan for such building, structure or use has been reviewed in accordance with Sec. 47-24.1. TABLE 1, Development Permits and Procedures and ~~approved by the planning and zoning board, site plan level III,~~ as provided in Sec. 47-24.2. Site Plan Development Permit.
