

The John Scott Dailey Florida Institute of Government (IOG) at Florida Atlantic University (FAU) has been offering high quality, cost effective training programs and technical assistance for local government, state, and nonprofit personnel for over thirty years. We tailor our curriculum to meet the specific professional development needs for our customers and are constantly adding new topics to our program offerings. The Institute of Government at FAU has coordinated approximately 2,000 training workshops and seminars and 300 technical assistance projects for over 40,000 public sector employees within the last five years.

Trainnovations®, a Florida based organization, is a service provider for the John Scott Daily IOG and provides:

- customized on-site training and professional development
- strategic support with organizational development (data analysis and collection, change initiatives)
- tactical resources and technical assistance to statewide associations

Trainnovations®, has been associated with FAU IOG for over 15 years and has provided a multitude of services to a diverse range of government agencies and municipalities including the Florida Department of Transportation District 4, Broward County, Cities of West Palm Beach, Wellington, Jupiter, Boynton Beach, Greenacres, Islamorada, and Lighthouse Point. For the better part of 15 years, Trainnovations® has consistently received the highest positive feedback from clients for employee training and development, organizational development and change management, and technical assistance programs. Trainnovations® is available exclusively through the IOG and does not provide services to clients directly.
