

CITY OF FORT LAUDERDALE

CLASSIFICATION & COMPENSATION PLAN OVERVIEW 2018

MISSION

The City of Fort Lauderdale’s mission is “We Build Community.” Fulfilling this mission largely depends on our ability to provide competitive pay and benefits that attract and retain talented Community Builders seeking fulfilling careers.

PURPOSE

The City of Fort Lauderdale engaged Segal Waters Consulting to conduct a Classification and Compensation Study to evaluate employee salaries and benefits. The study was designed to help the City develop a classification structure and compensation plan that supports internal equity, fosters career development, provides for market competitiveness, and rewards a passion for building community.

GOALS

The overall goals of the study included: aligning internal structure, simplifying classification structures, identifying paths for career progression, assessing recruitment and retention needs, and analyzing minimum qualifications to facilitate recruitment of talent.

The primary deliverable focused on developing a competitive pay and benefit plan based on current market data and ensuring that the plan was fiscally responsible to meet the needs of the City to recruit and retain qualified Community Builders.

To achieve this end, Segal Waters worked with the City’s Human Resources team to conduct a salary survey of the regional labor market; evaluate existing jobs and organizational structure; assess recruitment and retention needs; analyze qualifications to facilitate talent recruitment; and develop new job descriptions, organizational charts, and career ladders.

One of the key objectives of the Classification and Compensation Study was to replace the current classification plan with a new, modern plan that accurately reflects and supports the work performed by Community Builders and provides clear opportunities for career growth.

APPROACH

Segal Waters reviewed 18 comparable employers as part of the study. The participating agencies were identified by the City as being representative of a competitive labor market and included a combination of local cities, counties, school districts, transportation entities, universities, and utilities.

The consultant analyzed the classification and job description questionnaires (JDQs) completed by hundreds of Community Builders. Segal Water recommended that the City create new job titles and revise current titles to more precisely identify the level and scope of work being done by Community Builders. In addition, 400 new job descriptions were created as part of an updated classification structure.

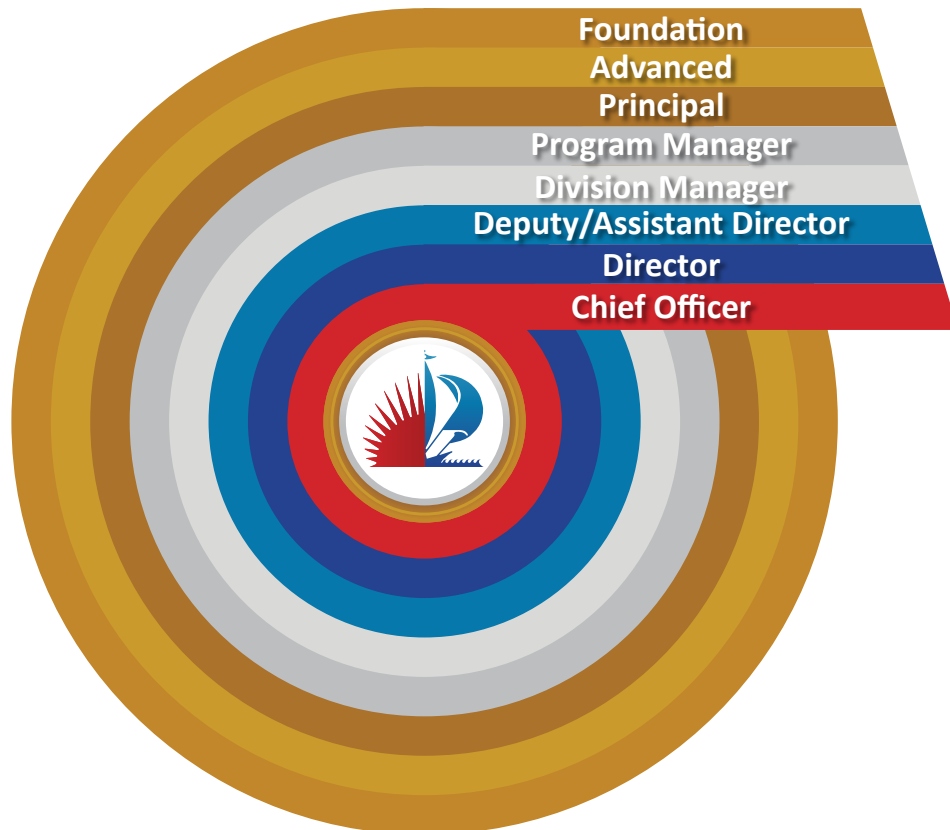

As part of the study, Segal Waters gathered and analyzed best practices for modern compensation plans and benchmarked 100 jobs. They reviewed base salaries, salary structures, and incentives to create a new compensation plan for the City. The compensation analysis is based on public and private sector market averages and is relative to the 75th percentile of the market.

RECOMMENDATIONS

As part of the consultant's recommendations, the City's classification plan has been updated and is now organized by new classification levels (see chart on page 3 for level descriptions). The plan groups together jobs with similar responsibilities and requirements that can be compensated within similar pay ranges.

This new classification structure outlines career paths that support Community Builder advancement. Job descriptions explain the qualifications and skills needed so Community Builders can plan and prepare for new opportunities and career growth.

CLASSIFICATION LEVELS

City of Fort Lauderdale – Classification Levels

"Hire for Passion. Train for Success."

CLASSIFICATION LEVELS

DEPUTY/ ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	The Deputy/Assistant Director level is comprised of positions reporting directly to a Director with responsibility for the administration of multiple divisions or programs within a department. Positions in this classification level may also oversee elements of operations or internal support within a department and assist the Director with establishing objectives, policies, rules, practices, methods, and standards. DIVISION MANAGER	The Division Manager level is comprised of positions with full functional management responsibility for a major division of the organization. Division Managers have significant responsibility for formulating, administering, or managing the implementation of multiple policies or programs; responsibility for directing the work of others through at least the next lower classification level of supervision; and significant responsibility for overseeing and planning the delivery of services assigned to the division.
PROGRAM MANAGER	The Program Manager level is comprised of positions that provide direct support to a Division Manager or have management responsibility for a major program of the organization. Program Managers may supervise staff and/or provide expertise in a specialized program area that is critical to the mission of the organization. An incumbent in this position typically is a subject matter expert who possesses highly specialized knowledge, skills, abilities, experience, and has responsibility for overseeing and planning the delivery of those specialized services.
PRINCIPAL	The Principal level is comprised of positions that are typically the highest level in a career series and is assigned to duties and responsibilities that are complex, difficult, and varied. Work may require problem solving, the development and adoption of non-standard procedures, oversight of a program/process, and provision of quality controls. Work may be performed under limited supervision or direction. An incumbent may possess considerable latitude to accomplish tasks and may also oversee a specialized area of the organization that has program or process responsibility and may have responsibility for supervising Community Builders or supporting a Division or Program Manager.
ADVANCED	The Advanced level is comprised of positions that are typically the second highest tier in a career series and incumbents are expected to be fully trained and competent to independently perform the full range of duties. Advanced Community Builders may also assist in training and providing direction to others. The incumbent may have some latitude for independent judgment and, within prescribed parameters, may vary work methods and procedures. Work is usually performed under general supervision.
FOUNDATION	The Foundation level is comprised of positions that typically require on-the-job training for Community Builders with limited work experience. Assignments are generally narrow in scope and are performed within a procedural framework established by supervisors. These positions may have a defined training period and a formal training program with established competencies to be acquired. Work is performed under close supervision.

SALARY COMPENSATION

Two salary structures have been recommended for implementation, General and Management. The City's pay structures were updated to ensure salaries are at least at the 75th percentile (top 25 percent) of the average market data collected from comparable employers. To maintain the 75th percentile in the marketplace, the Human Resources Department will conduct salary surveys every two years to assess market changes.

Ranges of pay grades with minimums and maximums have been established to reflect average market spreads. Recommended ranges are 55% for General Employees and 70% for Managers.

Grade progression reflects the percentage difference between each pay grade. Suggested grade progressions are 11% for General Employees and 8% for Managers.

The number of pay grades has been reduced from 168 to 20. Pay grades 1-13 are for general employee level classifications and 16-20 are for management level classifications.

To implement the study recommendations, the Human Resources Department will merge the updated pay structures with current policies to create a comprehensive document that will become the City's Compensation Plan.

All Community Builders will receive a 2.05% increase effective the first pay period of the new fiscal year.

Community Builders earning less than the proposed minimum will be given a pay increase to meet the minimum of the new pay range.

Community Builders at the top of their pay range will be eligible for a lump-sum merit-based payment of 1.5% or 3% of their base annual rate, depending on their annual evaluation.
